

EPC Hosts Tailgate at MetLife Stadium!

It was another beautiful night at MetLife Stadium where the EPC hosted a Tailgate Event for its members on Tuesday, September 20th in the Mezzanine Lounge overlooking the field.

Following a tour of the facility for early arrivals and a Cocktail Hour, EPC President Marianne Santo welcomed the group and introduced the sponsors; Idaho Potato Commission, The Oppenheimer Group, and Zespri.

Ross Johnson of the Idaho Potato Commission, Debbie Rogers of Zespri, and Eric Zeigenfuss of Oppenheimer each gave a very brief update on their respective companies and expressed how much the Metro New York marketplace means to their businesses. The sponsors then turned the night over to guest speaker, Shaun O'Hara.

Shaun played his collegiate football at Rutgers University and was a member of the New York Giants XLII Super Bowl team. Sean spoke about how he knew since the age of 5 that he wanted to be a professional football player and how his father was instrumental in teaching him the importance of working towards goals and ultimately achieving them. His message was that this can be applied to business and life in general. Following his remarks, he opened the presentation up to questions and there was a lively dialogue with the audience about his playing days, life after football, and his former teammates.

The sponsors then raffled off footballs signed by Shawn, as well as Idaho Potato Trucks and Spudy Buddie stuffed dolls, cooking knife sets, Nike backpacks, and a Yeti cooler and traveler mug.

It was a great night of EPC camaraderie!

Pictures L to R are: Shaun O'Hara, members of the Idaho Potato Commission and The Oppenheimer Group, EPC Vice President Theresa Lowden, EPC President Marianne Santo, EPC Executive Director Susan McAleavey Sarlund, and members of the Zespri sales team.